Beginner's pages

Hints on filling out the entry form:
1. List all of one breed before going to another breed.
2. List all of the same variety in a breed before going to the next variety.
3. Ideally begin with senior boar, then senior sow, then intermediates, then juniors which is the judging order.
4. Use dittos when the next breed or variety is the same as the one above.
5. Class means senior (6 months or over), intermediate (4 to 6 months old), or junior (under 4 months).
6. Be sure you have the breed, variety, class, and sex correct. If you try to change a cavy to a new breed, variety, class, or sex this is a scratch and day of show entry ($6). If you sent the entry and realized the mistake, please e-mail by Thursday before the show so the paperwork can be printed out correctly.

Traveling to the show
Carriers should have solid bottoms with absorbent bedding so the cavies stay dry. A light weight cover over your carriers is recommended especially if it's cold and windy.

At the show –
Exhibitors who entered through Easy2Show will immediately get e-mail confirmation of their entry. Since there are no check in sheets, keep a copy of any e-mailed entries, and then check with the show secretary to be sure your cavies were entered correctly on the control sheets. Changes are handled by the show secretary. Ear number changes are $1 per pig per class. Changing a cavy to a different class is much harder – please call or e-mail in your class changes by midnight the Thursday before the show. If you change information at the show table, these changes will be ignored. The only acceptable changes are done by the show secretary. Once judging has started on the breed, no changes are allowed.

Put your carriers on the tables – if you can bring your own table this is helpful. Keep alert for the judging. If you are nowhere to be found and we have called for your cavy 3 times, you will be skipped. It's best if you let friends also showing your breeds know where your cavies are, so if you can't be found, someone knows where your cavies are. When it is time for your class, bring your cavy to the show table. Do not let the judge know which cavy is yours, and never, never tell a judge how that cavy placed in another show. That is called influencing the judge, and can result in your cavy or even your whole entry, from being dismissed from the show. After your cavy is judged and you ready to take it back to its carrier, then you can ask a question about it.

Leaving
Please leave your area as orderly as possible, picking up big trash like soda cans and disposing of them in the barrels. Be sure to get your ribbons and any other awards (ask). Be sure you have all your cavies and have not left a cavy, chairs or a child behind. If you realize you have left something behind, text the show superintendent (Wendy Feaga 410-206-8173) after the show so we can get your things back to you. ☺
